

C L A R K C O U N T Y REGIONAL FLOOD CONTROL DISTRICT

More people die each year in flash floods than any other natural disaster. The majority of these deaths are caused by unsuccessful attempts to drive through floodwater. Floodwater is dangerous. It can move as fast as 30 mph, and contains debris and other hazardous materials. It is important to stay out of flood control facilities as well. Water in flood channels and storm drains can rise as quickly as one foot a minute and can sweep you off your feet.
